Survival strategies to manage critical risks
beyond the downturn

Dear Risk Professional,

It is my pleasure to invite you to be a part of the 6th Annual Risk Management Conference: Risk 2009: Survival strategies to manage critical risks beyond the downturn.

As the premier event in risk management, Risk 2009 will provide a strategic senior level forum to deliberate on effective risk management strategies and navigate the most critical risks of the year: the global recession, enterprise risk oversight, outbreaks of swine flu, financial fraud and the threat of insolvency.

2009 is a critical year for risk managers. Not only is the risk management role increasingly pivotal, critical events are expected to come to fruition such as the launch of the new ISO31000:2009 risk management standard and incorporation of enterprise risk management into Standard & Poor's debt ratings.

This year, we are privileged to welcome three Chief Risk Officers: Grant Lowen, Chief Risk Officer, Commonwealth Bank of Australia, Mike Cutter, Chief Risk Officer, ANZ Bank and Jane Couchman, Chief Risk Officer, BT Financial Group, who will deliver critical insights on managing risk in this current climate. Hear from practical cross-industry case studies, lessons learnt and risk management best practice from National Australia Bank, Qantas, Mirvac, Amcor, Suncorp, Western Power, Boeing Defence and more.

Also, if you are a subscriber to Risk magazine, take advantage of an opportunity to have input into a special article for the magazine's next edition by imparting your insights at the Pre-conference Masterclass Think Tank.

Be at the forefront of industry developments and sharpen your focus to face the critical risks in 2009 onwards. Join top risk management leaders in brainstorming on critical emerging risks in a tough economic environment.

I encourage you to book your place today and we look forward to seeing you at the conference in August.

Yours sincerely
Mark Phillips

Masterclass Think Tank: 1:00pm - 4:45pm

Survival strategies to reinforce risk management in tough economic conditions – what is the future of risk management? (Subscribers only)

Take the opportunity to have your say in Risk magazine. Contribute to an exclusive true masterclass on the future of risk management and the value of enterprise risk management in this climate. Findings will be published in Risk magazine's next issue.

Are you a current professional risk manager who has an interest in the future of the risk management process within your organisation? Do you have an opinion and something to say?

Do you see risk as under threat in your organisation and the functions increasingly being confused with compliance?

Do you want to have your say and make a difference?

The aim of this highly-interactive masterclass is to explore the challenges facing the profession under these difficult times and to suggest solutions on how to turn adversity into opportunity, it will be facilitated but the outcomes are up to the participants.

- What are the top risks in 2009?
- Key trends in managing risk in economic downturn
- Future of risk management – what lies ahead
- What is the value of enterprise risk management in this climate? Could ERM provide long-term value to the business?

Facilitated by:

Michael Vincent, Director, Risk Management, Monash University

Michael spent 22 years in the banking and finance industry as a practitioner, where he gained experience in all areas of the industry, ranging from bank branches to the international arena. Michael's pioneering formal integrated risk education within Australia and internationally is the envy of risk management organisations and universities in Europe, the UK and North America, as well as other Australian Universities. Michael designed and wrote the course doctrine and outlines in management of risk presently offered by Monash University in the Master of Risk Management degree.

2:10 Integrating strategic objectives and risk management: the risk value-add

Case study

Many organisations have separate silos for risk and strategy. Integrating the two doesn't mean changes to the organisational structure, but in the mind-set of managers. In the session, Matt will go over how Western Power has been successful in integrating the two and provide key lessons learnt.

- Aligning strategic and operational risks to corporate strategic direction and plan
- Participating in Board / Executive / Divisional strategy review and development
- Demonstrating the long-term value of risk management and bottom-line impacts
- Assimilating business feedback directly into the risk framework, processes and tools
- Underlying methods and principles to our approach including consulting techniques
- Designing a single process for strategy development and risk reviews
- Respect true accountability through providing senior managers full ownership of their risk profiles
- Proactive engagement with the business in tackling strategic problems

Matt Mueller, Head of Corporate Risk, Western Power

2:50 Achieving synergy between compliance and risk management in the face of tougher regulation

Corporate failures, rising demands from shareholders and regulators and new legislation have added to the burden of black letter law of compliance. This session will discuss:

- What is the role of risk and compliance in today's climate?
- Examining the criticality of defining the role, structure, methodology and systems of risk and compliance
- Merging risk and compliance functions – what are the pros and cons?
- Ensuring your internal controls and compliance frameworks are watertight
- Strengthening the compliance culture
- Mapping new compliance areas resulting from key emerging global risks

Martin Tolar, CEO, Australasian Compliance Institute

3:30 Afternoon tea

12:20 Networking lunch for speakers and delegates

Attend either Stream A or Stream B

STREAM A

1:20 Key Risk Indicators - A powerful risk and management tool in ERM

Key Risk Indicators are one of the most powerful ERM tools available. They allow the most “real time” monitoring of risk across the business and provide management with objective risk information with which to manage the business. This session will leave you with an appreciation of how you can implement a powerful KRI system in your organisation and extract serious value from your ERM spend.

- Examining the benefits of a KRI system, the nature of KRIs and how they compare with KPIs
- Exploring the range of KRIs from simple numbers to more complex algorithms
- Selecting the best KRIs
- Collecting, analysing and aggregating KRI information
- Reporting KRIs
- Using KRIs for risk and general management

David Tattam, Director, Protecht Advisory

2:10 Guarding against insolvency, counterparty risk and litigation risk: Protecting your business

- What are the options for reducing insolvency risk?
- Mitigating insolvency risk through controls
- Safeguarding against counterparty risk in contractual obligations
- A rigorous approach to identifying and quantifying litigation risks in the current economic climate

Bruce Hambrett, Partner, Baker & McKenzie

2:50 Afternoon tea

3:20 Minimising exposure to escalating financial fraud in times of economic downturn

War stories

- What types of fraud are prolific?
- Fostering watertight financial management practices and active fraud detection for key business units locally and globally
- Effectively managing fraud risk and reducing your exposure – what policies and procedures are critical?
- Performing integrity due diligence when entering new agreements, acquiring new assets, and monitoring performance of suppliers
- Moving from a reactionary to preventative approach

Gary Gill, National Leader, KPMG Forensic

4:00 Facing up to the climate change business challenge: Mitigating regulatory, financial risks and business impact

Despite deferral of the government Carbon Pollution Reduction Scheme, draft legislation and changes are now introduced into parliament. 2010 will be a transitional year for business compliance by 2011-2012. A key global risk in 2009, is your business prepared to face the climate change debacle?

- The global and Australian climate change challenge for business
- A new compliance area: Requirements for carbon monitoring, reporting and auditing
- Examining the types and magnitude of business risks posed by climate change and how to manage these, whilst taking advantage of opportunities
- Managing effects on business operations, regulatory and financial risks
- Reputational risk issues

Jonathan Jutsen, Founder and Executive Director, Energetics

4:40 Close of conference

STREAM B

- Examining the impact of the global recession on organisational attitudes to business continuity
- How business continuity management is changing to accommodate the new risk landscape
- What other forces are influencing the direction of business continuity in 2009?
- How will this affect the role of business continuity and other risk management professionals

Peter Sierwald, NSW Area Representative, Chapter Leadership Committee Member, Business Continuity Institute

2:00 Swine flu, bush fires and terrorism, risk and business continuity: Bullet-proofing your business in a rapidly changing risk landscape

- Integration of risk management and business continuity
- Business Continuity Maturity Model – what level of maturity do we currently possess? How can we progress to the next level?
- What is your resiliency rating?
- Developing leadership capability throughout periods of reduced operational capacity and ensuring your crisis team is equipped
- Preparing for a pandemic: ie Swine flu, bush fires
- Lessons learn/Experience from 9/11

Shane Barker, Manager, Business Continuity, Senior Manager, EHS, Boeing Defence Australia

2:40 Afternoon tea

3:00 Embedding risk management into programme delivery

With the recently announced $38 billion Victorian Transport Plan and over the years, the department has sought to improve its approach to risk management, compliance requirements via their annual risk attestation and embed the concept in a better way, especially with program delivery. This session will discuss:

- Embedding risk management within the culture of government agencies and departments
- Approaching a whole of government approach to risk management
- Achieving consistency in risk management frameworks across agencies
