Back to Description

Through the use of machine learning algorithms, we have developed a new feature – Similar Provision feature - which will show users similar/ related provisions from other jurisdictions within Australia.

Examples of tasks that practitioners and researchers will use this for:

- Show me the equivalent or closely related provisions from around Australia so I can better understand the complete legal landscape, including risks and opportunities to discuss with my clients.
- I want to see all the discussion of this section in other materials so I know I am interpreting it correctly.
- I want to see how courts and expert commentators in other jurisdictions have interpreted this section in case there is useful precedent elsewhere.
- Show me all the similar/ related provisions from around Australia so I can understand how different jurisdictions have chosen to handle this area.
- I need to be able to quickly familiarise myself with legislation in other jurisdictions so I can advise my clients about their obligations and opportunities inter-state.

Please note - this feature is launching in December with limited scope:

- Part of all LawNow Plus subscriptions
- Current Acts only (Sub Leg to come in 2019)
- Limited Practice Areas: Building & Construction, Defamation, Evidence, Limitation of Actions, Tort, Transport (other Practice Areas to come in 2019)

Web results have now been decommissioned

The screenshot shows the Lexis Advance search interface. At the top, the search term 'promissory estoppel' is entered. The results are categorized by source type, with 'Web (2)' highlighted in a red circle. Below the navigation bar, there are two search order buttons: 'In any order' and 'In specified order'. The 'Web (2)' category is selected, and the results are displayed in a list format. The first result is 'Abuse of Process - Stephen Lawrence' with a URL from alsnswact.org.au. The second result is 'THE UBIQUITY OF DISGORGEMENT OF PROFITS FOR BREACH OF CONTRACT' with a URL from the supreme court of Western Australia. A 'Narrow By' sidebar is visible on the left, and a pagination bar at the bottom shows '1' of 1 results.
