

LexisNexis New Zealand Launches COVID-19 Information Centre

Providing free access to vital content and services to their customers

30-MARCH-2020 AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND - LexisNexis New Zealand announces the launch of a new resource to support customers during the COVID-19 Level 4 lockdown. www.lexisnexis.co.nz/COVID19 has been developed to provide LexisNexis customers free access to vital research content and information as it relates to the current pandemic situation.

“While the uncertainty of Coronavirus presents challenges and risks, we want to assure our customers that LexisNexis Pacific is committed to supporting you and your business throughout the course of this pandemic. Information channels like the LexisNexis New Zealand COVID-19 Information Centre is the first of many initiatives we are planning that will enable and support our customers through this challenging time,” said Greg Dickason, Managing Director, LexisNexis Pacific

Visitors to the LexisNexis New Zealand COVID-19 Information Centre can explore a library of research, articles and commentary across specific practice areas directly related to pandemic issues. Content will be updated regularly as developments are announced. Product resources like user guides, video tutorials and CPD-earning webinars are also available through the site to help customers utilise their suite of solutions. LexisNexis New Zealand will have product support and training resources available by request, and is operating business as usual by calling 0800 800 986.

“The New Zealand community is faced with extremely uncertain times, but technology is able to keep us connected and informed like no other time in history,” said Andy Boss, General Manager, LexisNexis New Zealand. “Now that the Level 4 lockdown is in place and working remotely becomes the new normal, we [LexisNexis New Zealand] wanted to develop a resource to help make the transition easier for our customers.”
